About Me

Andres Garza

I am a 33-year old, recently certified Full-Stack Developer. I am bilingual when it comes to human languages, and working towards becoming polylingual when it comes to computer languages. With a Medical field background I hope to develop tools to ease medical record information transfer in the safest manner possible. I was born in Mexico, but circa 2005 the United States have been my home; more specifically Texas. I have always been fascinated by technology and all that it allows us to accomplish, but what fascinates me even more is the potential that technology has, that will enable us to accomplish even more things. The prospect of making people's lives better and easier, is what pushed me to work towards making that (dream/vision/goal) a reality. Stay tuned so you can watch me change the world.
